The Southerns and Secretary Seward

The following are some of the incidents of the evening at a late reception of Secretary Seward in Washington City. It was the occasion for the interchange of many civilities and expressions of kindness. The several delegations were introduced by P. Phillips.

When the Georgia delegation was presented Seward alluded to the fact that he had resided in Georgia, and taught schools there in early life. He inquired if any of his old pupils were present. Judge Bingham replied that there were none present, but that he himself was a native of the county adjoining the one in which Seward had resided, and knew that local traditions there preserved the memory of his former administration.

"You would find it pleasant," said the Judge, "to visit Georgia, and would be hospitably received."

Seward replied that were he more capable of undergoing fatigue and less pressed with other engagements he would gladly go, for he entertained sentiments of great kindness and respect for the people of Georgia.

This circumstance was soon afterwards mentioned in the hearing of the Attorney General, and reference was also made to the fact that Trumbull, of Illinois, commenced the business of life in Georgia. The reply of Seward to the invitation of Judge Bingham gave rise to some remarks in regard to the feelings of the people and the work of reconstruction or restoration. The Attorney-General said in substance that he rejoiced to see the era of good feeling so rapidly returning. That the people of the South had fought for a great stake and had fought gallantly. The issue had gone against them, and it was necessary that they should accept the result; while all just principles of fraternity pointed the Government to walk in the path of magnanimity and to restore the Union fully at an early a day as practicable upon constitutional principles, only requiring that what had been won by the military should not be yielded by the civil servants of the people.

Judge Bingham said the people of the South had placed the great issues that had for so many years produced discord upon the arbitrament of arms. That arbitrament had gone against them, and further resistance was looked upon by the just minded, thinking men there as hopelessly futile and as even partaking somewhat of dishonor.

Upon this subject Seward remarked that the policy of the Government was to restore and improve, not to injure or destroy.

"Thus," said he, "the President has said to the large mass—those who are below the rank of Colonel, and who were pursuing the humbler walks of life — You shall have present amnesty. With others who occupied positions to be leaders in the rebellion and whose situations in life were such as to give them influence, the Administration must necessarily proceed more cautiously."

A desire was expressed by several that the Government would at an early day adopt a general amnesty. Seward said he hoped that the States would all be in their appropriate places soon. For the present, the Government must make sure work of preserving the peace of the nation.

Bliss, of Alabama, facetiously inquired if, in cases where parties did not have the $20,000 making the thirteenth exception, the Government would make it up to them.

Seward replied that it would make it up to them in kindness and good will, and the preservation of peace and quiet for themselves and their families.

When Judge Fisher, of Mississippi, was presented—"Ah," said Seward, "you intend to be Governor!" Judge Fisher replied, "That is yet to be decided." In conversation with Colonel Fannin, of Georgia, reference was had to Seward, of Georgia, and his recent visit to Washington. These and other incidents show that Seward keeps himself thoroughly informed about the condition of affairs in the several States.

Thus pleasantly did the evening pass away, so that it may be emphatically termed a reunion. Seward expressed his gratification at the state of good feeling that prevailed, and, referring to the fact that there were several English gentlemen present, he said he was glad such an occurrence had taken place, and that those gentlemen were present to witness it.

He made a delicate reference to the effort that had been made to assassinate him, and said he would tell an anecdote. That when he learned it was the intention of the Southerners at Washington to pay him their respects, he stated to the friend who informed him that he would be at home this evening at eight o'clock. He then notified Frederick Seward that he would have a reception this evening.

"Reception of whom?" inquired he.

"Of the rebels."

"I hope it be a more agreeable reception of the rebels than the last one we had, I would prefer not to be present."

"Sure enough he is not present, but he is too unwell to be out."

Several gentlemen promptly said the assassination was not the act of the rebels; that true hearted Southerners scorned the act and despised the perpetrators.

There were many gentlemen from the South present, mainly from South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. All took part in the conversation freely, and all went away pleased with the Secretary of State and other members of the President's Cabinet who were present. Such free, frank and polite interviews are calculated to do good.

FENIAN BALL IN ST. LOUIS.—On last Tuesday evening, at Veranda Hall, was given the ball of the Fenian Sisterhood. At about twelve o'clock the festivities were suspended for the purpose of giving and presenting to the gentlemen of the Association a gorgeous flag of green and gold, having on the one side a well executed likeness of the young martyr patriot, Robert Emmet, and on the other an emblematic device of that light of liberty that is to shine over Erin's Isle. The presentation address was delivered by Miss Ann Jane Mooney, Directress of the Sisterhood.

At about eleven o'clock the distinguished soldier, Major General Sherman, entered the hall, escorted by Brigadier General Curley. The hero of "the march to the sea" wore upon his breast the badge of the Fenian Brotherhood, and we doubt not but underneath it beat a heart in sympathy for the Irish nationality. Next appeared Major General Frank Blair, escorted by J. J. McBride, the Little Giant of Missouri; Brigadier General Tom Sweeny, accompanied Captain Kehoe. These distinguished guests, after promenading the hall and receiving the congratulations that ever await worth and valor, ascended the platform, when loud calls were made for General Blair, who in a short and emphatic speech pledged the neutrality of America in the coming struggle. He said the enemy of Ireland was the enemy of America. He charged all the crimes against Ireland to Old England. The account would have to be balanced in a few years, when the young Fenians go out in their strength. When the strife comes we will be neutral as England was during the great rebellion. He did not claim to be an Irishman, only about half a one, but when the time came he would say let the "Finnegans" go for them.

At this point of the General's speech a stentorian voice yelled out "That is wrong, Blair, our name is Fenian, not Finnegan as some try to ridicule us." After a short pause, the little commotion that was brewing was ended by the speaker stating that his early spelling was tolerably good but he might be somewhat deficient in proper pronunciation. This turn produced a humorous effect, and good feeling was restored. After this interruption the General continued to speak several minutes amid the plaudits of the assembly.

Loud calls were then made for General Sweeny, the veteran of Mexico and the bullet proof soldier of the rebellion. He responded in a speech replete with manly eloquence and patriotic fire, in the course of which he apostrophized the flag before him and assured his audience that amongst Fenians to the rebellion, he would not be the last, as he was ever ready to lead the friends of Ireland to the consummation of all their hopes.

The next speaker was Dr. Reynolds, late of the Army of the Potomac, who apologized for the absence of John O'Mahony, and announced among other glad tidings the glorious news that three fourths of the Irish priesthood were in sympathy with the cause. Dancing was then resumed, and kept up until an early hour, when the assembly broke up.—Missouri Democrat, Sept 12th.

METEOR.—The Montpelier (Vt.) Freeman mentions the appearance of a large and brilliant meteor at that place lately, and says a mass of soft jelly like matter, some half peck in bulk, and sulphurous in smell, was found the next morning which had evidently fallen from it.

ANOTHER SUPPOSED VICTIM OF THE BROTHER JONATHAN.—A dead body was found on the beach at Eureka on the 30th of September, evidently one of the unfortunate victims of the Brother Jonathan disaster. The remains were very much disfigured by decomposition, all the flesh having disappeared from the head, leaving but the bare skull. The feet, legs and hands were also fleshless, one of the latter being entirely gone. All the clothing remaining on the body was a pair of reddish mixed woolen pantaloons and merino drawers. In the watch-fob was an open-faced gold watch, with gold dial, Gardner, maker, High street, Belfast, no number. The chain is made of four gold wires united laterally, and slightly twisted. From all the indications left to judge by, he was apparently a man of middle age, with black or dark hair, some of the front teeth were gone, but whether knocked out while drifting among the rocks, or lost during the life time of the deceased, could not be ascertained; those remaining were sound. The body was that of a robust man about six feet high. James White, the finder, assisted by Charles Pietz and others, buried it on a little sand bluff, and erected a rude headboard, on which they inscribed the date of finding and burial. Information can be had of Charles Pietz by calling at the jewelry store of B. Heningh, No. 636 Kearny street. Pietz will be in the city but a few days, and persons having lost friends on the Brother Jonathan, and who may recognize the above description, will do well to call on P. without delay.—San Francisco Call.

CORONERS IN IDAHO.—We find the following account of a Coroner's inquest in the N. Y. Ledger. The officer referred to must have been indeed possessed of "energetic and determined traits," and well posted on the duties of his office:

"It seems that they already have coroners in Idaho, and that when one of them sets about 'doing his painful duty,' nothing can stop him—not even the impossibility of finding the dead body of the untimely deceased. This energetic and determined trait of the Idaho coroner was strikingly illustrated on a recent occasion, when a disappointed gold seeker in that far-off land committed suicide by drowning himself. All efforts to recover his body having proved unavailing, the inquest was held on his hat and coat, which were found lying on the bank, and a verdict of 'found empty owing to the death of their owner by drowning himself,' was returned, to the perfect satisfaction of the gratified community, who intend pressing their gifted coroner's claims to a seat in the cabinet in case any change shall be made in that institution."

The Richmond Whig says that a schooner has sailed from Richmond for Baltimore with a cargo of five thousand four hundred bushels of tobacco ashes. These ashes are the result of the tobacco smoked up in the big pipe of the evacuation conflagration. It was gathered from the debris of the tobacco warehouses burned. Tobacco, as is well known, contains salts of potassa and other elements of great importance in imparting fertility to the soil.

Half a dozen or more clerks have been dismissed from the Treasury Department for drunkenness on duty, and a number have been notified that intoxication during business hours will be considered sufficient cause for immediate dismissal.

A few cases of small pox have occurred at Jacksonville, Oregon.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

The Mining Interests of Owyhee

Ex Treasurer Morse arr ved from Owyhee a few days since where he has been engaged in quartz mining f r the season now about to cl se. We obtain much information fr m him.

It will be remembered that Mr. Morse was a member of the Morse & Vass Mill Company. Their mill was set up on a ledge f the same name upon its arrival there, and has been d ing g od service since it began operations. The ledge of which Mr. Morse is part owner and for which this mill was erected has proven very rich. On the surface it disclosed a vein of fourteen inches and upon sinking forty three feet had widened to twenty eight inches showing a beautiful casing of granite and yielding rock valued at from $[illegible] to $600 per ton. Notwithstanding these flattering prospects members of the company have not yet made their fortunes. It takes time and money to develop ledges so that they may yield abundant returns. The Eureka tunnel now starting into the mountain in which this and so many ledges exist will strike the M & Vass about one hundred feet from the discovery claim, on the first southern extension.

A vast amount of money is being expended to open and develop ledges in Owyhee. Five mills are now at work. The Minear and the Moore & Fogus mills are crushing ore from the Morning Star and Oro Fino ledges, and are yielding largely. The company owning them have expended fortunes to arrive at the pleasant juncture where they now are, and their operations show what is necessary in order to be successful. Those two ledges are now sufficiently developed to keep half a dozen mills in active service.

Persons who go into quartz operations must expect to expend many thousands before any comes back—it is costly business, but when once opened there is scarcely a ledge in the whole extent of country that does not yield fabulously.

The past has been a hard season. Many have not more than made expenses, and some have failed to do as much as that, but the future of the region is glorious and promising. The quartz rock now in sight, for the mills of Messrs. Fogus & Co., will be more than sufficient to treble the whole of their outlay. The New York & Owyhee Company's Mill, under the direction of Mr. Robbins and Mr. M. R. Styles, is preparing systematically for business this Fall and Winter. They are constantly working, opening their ledges, taking out a fine quality of rock, and will commence crushing by the first day of December. The Ainsworth Mill is steadily employed, and is doing well. The recent discoveries, such as the "Poor Man" ledge, the "Trook & Jennings," etc., are equally as rich as has been reported. Considerable litigation is likely to grow out of the former, the title being somewhat unsettled.

It is not essential in Mr. Moore's opinion, for all the ledges there to yield largely to eclipse the fame of Washoe. One half, or even less, than those on which work is being done, will be sufficient for any such purpose, and there is no doubt about all ledges paying, except, perhaps, in a few instances. Matters will change very much for the better as soon as the mills there generally get to work. New discoveries are of frequent occurrence.

From Montana.—Mr. Z. F. Moody arrived at the Dalles on Tuesday evening, after an extended trip to the mines of Montana. The special object of his tour was to ascertain the practicability of establishing trade with that region by the Pen d'Oreille route. The results of his observation, as given in the Mountaineer of yesterday are substantially the same as we published on the 6th of September last. There is found to be an excellent wagon road from Ruark's ferry, on Snake river, eleven miles above the crossing of Mullan's road, to the foot of Pen d'Oreille Lake. Here there is good navigation, forty five miles to the head of the lake, and fifteen more to the first obstruction in Clark's Fork of the Columbia, which resembles the dalles of the Columbia. From thence a wagon road can easily be constructed to the Jocko reservation, ninety miles, and from thence sixty-five miles to McClellan's gulch on the southern waters of the Big Blackfoot. There is fifty miles of timbered land from the head of navigation on Clark's Fork towards the Jocko; after that the country is open. The distance from Snake river is given at 360 miles. Mr. Moody crossed the Rocky mountains to Last Chance, or Helena. He reports a great mining excitement on the east side of the Missouri. On this side of the mountains, the prospectors as far north as the northern waters of Big Blackfoot are finding encouraging prospects. In that section are the new gulches, or more properly, creeks known as Reed's and Lincoln's gulches, which rival the richness of Ophir gulch at Blackfoot city. The general yield of the mines is very encouraging. Mr. Moody was not absent from the Dalles longer than forty days.

Multum in Parvo.—We know not when we have seen so much in so little as in the speech of Gen. Butler to the Massachusetts Republican Convention, wherein he gives the definition of the two issues before the country:

> "There are two theories: one is that rebellious States lost none of their rights by rebellion, so that when armed rebellion was crushed the States sprang into their former rights. The other theory is, that these rebellious States, banded in a new Confederacy, defying us as enemies, lost none of their rights under the Constitution. They were no less subjects because they were traitors. They must take the position into which they have voluntarily placed themselves, until by acts meet for repentance, they shall show themselves fit for a government founded on republican democracy, which shall give laurels to our defenders, stripes to our enemies at home and abroad. [Applause.] On these two issues the two great political parties will meet on different lines."

The Democratic party adopts the first theory, to wit: That the rebellious States, by the cessation of hostilities, are restored to their exact former position. The Union party represents the second. That wherein they have overthrown the constitution, therein they have forfeited their former rights, and cannot have any such rights restored save so far as can be done with safety to the Union. In other words the South must give guarantee for the future against any rebellion growing out of the cause which produced the present one.

The Difference.—All the Copperhead papers, in speaking of the war declare that the Constitution has been invaded, violated and destroyed. General Cass, in a recent letter, says:

> We have gained a great victory in the maintenance of the supremacy of the Constitution, and in the successful suppression of the rebellion which sought its overthrow. We may well trust that this lesson of the power and energy of the American people will insure the stability of the glorious Constitution for ages to come and will aid the progress of free institutions throughout the world.

General Cass has been frequently quoted by the Copperheads but we think they will not like this last expression. It don't read like Copperhead twaddle.

Gold Dust as a Circulating Medium.—The Idaho papers are disgusted with their circulating medium, gold dust, to which the Umatilla Advertiser says:

> We have failed to see the man that wasn't disgusted with it or more properly, the price they put upon it. It changes hands up there at $16 per ounce. Down here $15 per ounce is all that it is taken for. Thoroughly cleaned it is worth really but a trifle of $14 per ounce. In some instances parcels are offered here that would require an expert of the keenest sort, to say which was the most valuable, the sand or the gold dust contained in them.

LETTER FROM TRAVELER

Moline (Ill.) Sept. 1, 1865

Moving from place to place almost daily is not favorable to letter writing, yet a word by the way may not come amiss in your journal. A trip down to Fort Madison and back, on the Mississippi reminds me of a trip on our own Columbia. This noble river rolls on as of old between its pine-clad banks and among its large and beautiful islands. If the bluffs on the Columbia are higher and covered with more massive forests, the bluffs, islands and low lands of the Mississippi seem hardly less wild and hardly more disturbed by the hand of civilization. Here are farms and wood depots and small towns and larger cities, yet they are separated by long distances in which nature only in its native wildness is seen. The water fowl and the timid deer still find their homes on this river as on ours. The pilot too, threads his way along the winding channel crossing and recrossing, now hugging one shore and now hastening to the opposite bank to escape the shoals. People will long continue to settle in Iowa and Illinois before the banks of the Mississippi will be populated like those of the Hudson.

Steamboating is a prosperous business. The numerous railroads in both States have increased instead of diminishing the freights of the river boats. The cities are thriving. Davenport has 13,000 people, with some manufacturing. Rock Island right opposite, has about 6,000 or 7,000. Moline, three miles above Rock Island, has three or four thousand. Muscatine thirty miles below, has four or five thousand. Burlington has fourteen thousand, Fort Madison five or six thousand, Keokuk, about thirteen thousand. Keithsburg, New Boston, Oquawka are smaller but important business centers. One village, which once was called Dog town from its manufactures, if not from its customs, now rejoices in the name of Fairport.

Capt. Buford, of the New Boston, informs me that new and larger steamers are in process of construction. The larger ones run from St. Louis to New Orleans. The [illegible] carries 2300 tons. The prairies and coal mines and limestone quarries furnish cargoes for all the boats. During the war there was lost trade, but now it leaps forward with new elasticity.

The life of men is apparently in their business prospects. Almost entirely these occupy their minds and their tongues. The great railroad disasters and the terrible calamities like the loss of the Jonathan, of which we have just heard hardly arrests attention for more than a passing moment. More deeply, however must the heart feel the truth that we are here only for a few days, and soon will others take our places.

Extraordinary Earthquake.—The most violent earthquake ever experienced in Sacramento since the foundation of the city, occurred on Sunday at about twelve minutes before one o'clock p. m. This shock was felt by almost all our residents who were in doors, and especially by those who occupied second or third stories. Of those who were on the streets, and particularly those who were walking very few were conscious that anything unusual had occurred. All unite in describing the shock as being [illegible] and characteristic. After several violent vibrations a second or two of time intervened when the shaking was repeated more violent than at first. Nearly all say the vibration was east and west, but a few with whom we have conversed feel confident that the points were from somewhat to the northeast. In many instances men and women ran from the buildings into the streets and especially were they inclined to vacate in haste the rooms of upper stories. In the third story [illegible] the cases rattled [illegible] the gas fixtures swung to and fro [illegible] and everybody experienced a sensation of dizziness. Demonstrations of a kindred character were witnessed throughout the city. Doors and windows were shaken, a large number of clocks were stopped, chandeliers and pendant gas burners were swung backward and forward, crockery on shelves was set in motion, buckets and basins filled with water were relieved of portions of their contents, cow bells and door bells in hardware stores commenced ringing, picture frames and mirrors were rattled against the walls and all things movable were moved by the unknown power. Fortunately for the city, we can truthfully say that no damage whatever was done to property or life, which is quite remarkable considering the severity of the shock.—Union.

Idaho Mails.—The Postoffice Department advertises in the Idaho Statesman for proposals to carry the U. S. Mails from Boise City to Idaho City, Boise City to Esmeralda, [illegible] City to Humboldt City, Placerville, Pavette valley, Lewiston to Florence, The Springs to Elk City, and from Antoine Plante's to Hell Gate. Bidders to have their proposals ready for opening by the 28th of February coming. The contracts are to run from July 1st 1866 to June 30 1870.

The Montana Post.—We are in receipt of the Montana Post of September [illegible] published weekly by D. W. Tilton & Co. The Post is a live paper, handsomely printed and is doing good service for the new Territory. It is published at the city of Virginia.

The Salt Lake Vedette proves by Mormon admissions, the existence of the band of murderers known as Danites, and establishes in the same way, the complicity of the church leaders with these miscreants.

[illegible] City Lots.—We are often called upon to [illegible] to respect to nearly that Portland is not [illegible] community, for with rapid and extensive [illegible] and a consequent increase of population a [illegible] to have an overgrowth of revolting [illegible]. There is quite a contrast between Portland [illegible] cisco, or between this city and the cities of [illegible] Atlantic seaboard, which makes this even the [illegible] so [illegible] removed from the center of the hub on the verge of [illegible] frontier, remote from [illegible] but here [illegible] all American but habits, not acts and feeling, [illegible] the method of life. We have no Dead Rabbits, [illegible] no guerrillas, and assassins [illegible] a regularity. New Yorkers [illegible] their breakfast tables and [illegible] than we are able to give our readers [illegible] during the lifetime of [illegible]. The [illegible] and [illegible] we are [illegible] to an unusually quiet and orderly [illegible]. A case has been called [illegible] within a few days past [illegible] on the category of the rough [illegible] of a class calculated to put to test the [illegible] form of government at really defining the [illegible] of justice and suited only to the old [illegible] during the despotism of England. [illegible] will not come within the latitude afforded by [illegible] nation, and must be considered [illegible] by the social, for the benefit of the [illegible] moral principles. It is a case of [illegible] that occurred at the [illegible] wherein we are told that does [illegible] a King, and a Prince, [illegible] Tom Paine's system of [illegible] like to take a glance into the machinery of the [illegible] peep into the character and acts [illegible] as the saloon and works for his own [illegible] pious purposes, look at the tragedies [illegible] who have been mustered to his support [illegible] managed in a financial point [illegible] exploits; but as we said before [illegible] the matter, and being of the clergy [illegible] to the church to decide what shall be [illegible]. The pastor is at present at Union [illegible] miles west of this city, after having [illegible] Portland, and when the purity of his purpose [illegible] or the present charges against him [illegible] time enough for us to elucidate. At [illegible] state that we understand him to [illegible] moral infringements.

[illegible]—The Willamette Navigation [illegible] perfected their organization and [illegible] of incorporation with the Secretary of [illegible]. W. Burnside of this city, S. Lawrence [illegible] of Oregon City, are [illegible]. Burnside was chosen President of the [illegible] Active above the falls, the hull [illegible] and a new steamer to be immediately [illegible] will compose their line. The [illegible] and the boat to be built will [illegible] wheel boat below the falls on the [illegible] rivers. They are in [illegible] to [illegible] but we are told [illegible]. They will not [illegible] travel on the river, and [illegible] will be a benefit to the farmers [illegible] made regular and healthy [illegible] on the river for two lines, if [illegible] rates. The greatest trouble [illegible] the prosperity of the agricultural [illegible] the expense attending the trade [illegible] to market. The People's line [illegible] expensive improvements at Canemah [illegible] take all the new schemes together [illegible] past few months, they must result in [illegible] of the valley but to the [illegible] to the enterprises.

[illegible] Works Company.—The company [illegible] good active preparations by the [illegible] etc., to receive machinery now [illegible] this city, and expect to be able to go into [illegible] the first of January next. The new [illegible] situated on the levee, below D street. The [illegible] putting up a wharf capable of receiving [illegible] they may need, and adapted to the ship[illegible] boilers, etc., from the foundry [illegible] will be in the west end of the [illegible] floor and cupola in the south[illegible] and the boiler works, blacksmith shop, [illegible] for general convenience. Astounding Aerial Feat.—Our city was startled from its usual composure yesterday afternoon by a most astonishing aerial feat, performed by a member of the Buislay family. Several entertainments had been previously announced by this troupe to be given at the Park, to consist in part of a balloon ascension and trapez performances in the air by the aeronaut. On the first occasion referred to a violent gale sprung up and prevented the ascension, and on the second, the balloon, while being filled, became so torn as to render its inflation impossible. It was then announced (on Sunday) that for the purpose of proving to the community that the Buislay troupe were not humbugs a gratuitous exhibition would be given sometime during the week. Yesterday afternoon it was announced that the ascension would be made at about four o'clock, from a vacant lot at the northeast corner of Sixth and L streets. Before the hour named an immense crowd of men women and children collected in the neighborhood, filling sidewalks, balconies, windows and the open space surrounding the balloon. The balloon, which was about thirty three feet in diameter, was made of colored cotton canvas. For the purpose of inflating it, it was sustained in an upright position by a rope run from one pole to another, at a distance of about forty feet from the ground. Heated air was used for the purpose of inflation instead of usual element gas. For this purpose a fire was kindled under the balloon and within the circumference of the mouth, which is six or eight feet in diameter. Straw was used as fuel, and the balloon was filled with great rapidity after the fire was fairly started. Aeronauts generally ascend in a basket or car, which afford a comparatively safe and comfortable resting-place during the ride, but August Buislay seemed to regard such a fixture as a useless appendage, and had provided nothing of the kind. The only appendage visible was the trapeze, which consisted of a single wooden bar, about two inches in diameter and thirty inches in length, suspended horizontally and sustained by a cord or rope at each end attached to the balloon. Some men would have regarded this apparatus as affording rather inadequate accommodations for a trip to the clouds, but others are neither proud or particular as to how they travel, and Buislay appears to be of the latter class. He prepared for the ascension by divesting himself of all his clothing except his "tights," evidently designing to keep himself warm by physical exercise rather than through the temperature of the atmosphere in the upper regions. Between four and five o'clock the word was given and the lines were cast off. As the balloon rose up a feeling of horror ran through the audience, as Buislay, rose with it, holding on to the bar with his two hands. While many shouted at the top of their voices, others gazed in breathless suspense. As the balloon rose, Buislay commenced his astonishing performances on the bar, with as much freedom and fearlessness as though he had been in a gymnasium or circus. At one time he hung by his hands, then by his feet; then balanced on the bar, then revolved around it. At one time he poised himself on it and struck out with arms and legs, as though swimming. He continued these exercises until he attained the hight of about a mile, when his form became so indistinct that his movements were scarcely perceptible. The balloon ascended nearly perpendicularly, as there was scarcely a breath of wind stirring. It soon began to descend, and the adventurer lit again about two blocks from the starting point, coming down in the yard of a house on the south side of L street, near Fourth. He had been in the air about fifteen minutes. The Buislay troupe are natives of France. They have made repeated ascensions in Europe and South America, but never in the United States before. There are ten of them, and each in turn makes his ascension and performs on the trapeze.—Sacramento Union, October 4th.

We don't like the idea of telling tales out of school, but sometimes things will happen "within the pale" that would spoil if kept there. The other day an intelligent, but evidently prejudiced, friend walked into our office, seated himself at the table and settled down for an hour's amusement in looking over exchanges. For a long time no sound had greeted our ears save the clicking of the type and the rustling of the papers in the hands of our friend, when we were suddenly startled by his energetically rising to his feet and spitefully throwing down a paper, with the exclamation, "D—n the Copperhead thing!—when will they quit harping on the nigger question?" and then with the air of an offended monarch he strode from the room. Prompted by curiosity to see what so "disturbed the even flow of his blood," we walked to the table and picked up the paper he had been reading. It proved to be that most loyal Oregon Statesman, and the article that had so offended him was the one wherein the Federal officials who run it were setting themselves right in the support of the "Government" by coming out in opposition to negro suffrage.—Walla Walla Statesman.

General Grant.—While General Grant was en route from Springfield to St. Louis, a crowd pressed eagerly around the train while it was stopping at Alton. Somebody stepped upon somebody's toes, and a fight ensued which spread like an epidemic through the crowd assembled. The train moved off, leaving them to "fight it out on that line." A gentleman in the crowd cried out, as the train left, "I never knew General Grant to go anywhere but what he got up a fight."

A young man living in Central Pennsylvania received a telegraphic dispatch a few days ago, announcing the death of his father in Worcester, Mass. He hastened home, narrowly escaping death in three railroad accidents on the way, to find his parents alive and well.

We are pleased to learn that Messrs Smith & Davis, Druggists, have just received a supply of that truly valuable medicine for quickly curing coughs and colds. Hall's Pulmonary Balsam is sold by them at San Francisco prices—fifty cents a bottle.

The Only Remedy.—Those who suffer from foul breath are open to the charge of carelessness. It is an offence that can be speedily abated as a single bottle of the Fragrant Sozodont will unmistakably accomplish the work. No toilet table should be without it. It will preserve and keep the teeth white and the breath pure and sweet.
Sold by all Druggists.

Dangers of Neglect.—A fearful responsibility rests upon those charged with the care of children. A careless neglect in the timely use of a well known safe and certain remedy for that most common and dangerous complaint called Croup, should subject the party to the severest censure, when it is well known that a bottle of NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP would have warded off the attack. Mothers and nurses, KEEP IT BY YOUR BEDSIDE, and use it without fear upon the first symptom, and with a CERTAINTY of immediate relief.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—It renovates, purifies and strengthens the system, and aids the stomach in the performance of its functions. It is a sovereign specific for imparting strength, vigor and tone to the system, and possessing the curative powers for all diseases arising from a disordered stomach. In the most severe cases of cramps, diarrhea and weakness in the stomach the "Bitters" have been rigidly tested, and always with the greatest success.—Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere. ap12

Beware of the Fatal Consequences of Neglecting the First Symptoms of Consumption.—When a Cough first appears, or a dull pain in the chest, you should use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM at once. It breaks up the most harrassing cough in an incredible short time, heals the irritated parts and restores health to the system. For sale by

COME ALWAYS IN THE FORENOON!

The undersigned well known Artist, wishes to impress upon the public the fact that he is still taking Pictures in the City of Portland, at WOODARD'S GALLERY in Vaughn's brick building, over the City Drug Store, corner of Front and Morrison streets, and those wishing the BEST PHOTOGRAPHS, CARTES DE VISITE or [illegible] style of Pictures, should bear in mind that the forenoon is the best time to have Negatives taken. His ability to please subjects is conceded, hence there is no necessity of speaking in that respect.

At this Gallery may also be found a larger collection of OREGON VIEWS of Scenery from Astoria to the Idaho region and on the Willamette river and that at Portland than any other there in the State, suitable for Albums, Stereoscopes, etc., which are offered in various sizes singly or by the dozen. Give me a call.

FIFTH ANNUAL FAIR!

At Salem, Oct. 4, 1865.

Was awarded to

NICOLAS LUMSDEN,

Of Portland,

FIRST PREMIUM ON BOOTS!

HE TAKES THIS OPPORTUNITY TO INFORM his friends and the public generally, that he is prepared to make to order, in the latest style, French Double Insean Cork Sole, Water Proof Boots, Pump, Channel, Opera, and Welt Dress Boots.

He would recommend the French Double Insean Cork Sole, Water Proof Boots to those afflicted with Rheumatism, or cold feet during the rainy season in Oregon. And the Pump Boots to those wishing to trip the light, fantastic toe.

If any want a fit, or want,
Just call at Lumsden's shop;
For all the pains he will not spare
To please his friends who stop.

And if you wish more ease on earth,
Your measure let him get—
Now call, and hold your money's worth,
He's the man, "you bet."

He makes the Pump, the Opera Boot,
The Wellington and Cossack;
The Cork and Buckstrap he can cut,
And also make them pack.

The Roman sandal he can make
Or lady's slipper tell;
For all his genius so awake
To making Boots of Leather.

Sign of the Big Boot, on Alder street, between Front and First (opposite C. H. Mack, Dentist.)
His superiority of style, delicacy of execution, and durability of workmanship cannot be surpassed.

Montana

The heading to this article is but one word, yet it is pregnant with interest, not only to our own people and our Western neighbors but to the inhabitants of the Union at large, and it is with unfeigned pleasure that we find our sentiments are in sympathy with Eastern people, and that from a mass of correspondence and other sources of authentic information we are amply justified in predicting a career of prosperity for our Territory the details of which will rank among the standard sensations of the time to come. Public opinion is now awake to the vastness of our resources and the splendid openings for capitalists who seek to amass millions by the expenditure of a few thousands in the development of our mineral wealth. Opportunities for making rapid fortunes by the sale of merchandise are here more frequent and more easily obtained than in any other locality in the West. Million after million of gold has left the Territory by way of the river and by the overland route. The sums which have been sent and carried by traders, miners and others, are both large and numerous. One man that we know of took 400 lbs in clean dust, another carried 200 lbs with him, and from 100 lbs to 25 lbs has been so common, that a record of the names would look like our post office list. Machinery of the best kind is also in transit to this place and the quantity now in course of construction, destined for this Territory in the spring, is enormous. A very large list of property has been sent East for sale, and we feel that we are working for the best interests of our people, when we advise New York men and Eastern capitalists to act with circumspection in buying. The number of bona fide and rich lodes that will be shortly on sale is astonishing. This is the real "Ho!" Men of undoubted character and standing among us have charge of this kind of quartz, and, in all such matters, we make a rule to trust more to men than to papers. Of course the title must be complete, but every one knows that valuable real estate is usually confided to known and prominent men. "Verbum sap." Those who miss the chance this winter, will be sorry for it.

If we begin to talk about gulches, it is hard to know where to stop, for one or two are discovered weekly; but very many scores of millions of dollars will yet be taken out of Alder Gulch, together with the Last Chance and Blackfoot countries. It would be safe to wager that fifty new gulches will be discovered along the Range, in the Missouri and Yellowstone country, (which are scarcely touched yet,) and in the neighborhood of those very localities where the richness of the known deposits has riveted the attention of the prospectors to single spots. In hundreds of square miles of country, there is no canyon, gully, ravine, gulch or bottom, where gold, in greater or less quantity, is not discoverable. Over in the Indian country, the volcanic mountains are full of the leads which supply the gulches and placers.

There is a magnificent prospect for farmers and stock raisers, in this country. The land, pasture and meadow, is as good as they can desire, the climate is sufficiently genial in the farming localities, to insure the ripening of the crops in good season, and facilities for irrigation are either naturally present or obtainable. There is no Eastern locality where a foundry would pay as much clean gold, as in Montana, and a few machine shops, properly fitted and provided, would earn huge sums for their proprietors.

The truth of these statements is manifest to every half informed resident of the Territory, or distant reader of the Post. We speak in strong language, but our statements are literally and exactly correct; for no temptation would induce us to prostitute our pen to the manufacture of false or inflated statements, made with a view to personal advantage, at the expense of the credulous. We write for the information of the public, and in the interest of the people of the United States. In doing this, it is a practical necessity of our position that we should show forth, and from time to time expatiate upon the riches of Montana, but the basis of our remarks is real, substantial and visible. Toiling men will here be rewarded for their labor, and, as for the ladies, why we will be content to be counted "mean," if there is not a large lot of good, good looking and well-to-do husbands for every one that will come to us; and we can also insure them a treatment in accordance with all that a true woman desires. Men that won't work, and women that can't do anything useful, are the only domestic animals that are not wanted here. For every energetic, practical man and for every good woman or girl that will come hither, there is a fine living and a warm welcome. —Montana Post, Sept. 30th.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF SUSPENDED ANIMATION.—The Newcastle (England) Chronicle says:

A most remarkable case of suspended animation has occurred in Newcastle. One night a boy named [illegible], about twelve years of age, went to bed after partaking rather heartily of some rhubarb tart. Next morning, about six o'clock, he awoke in great pain, and his father used some simple remedies to remove the pain, but his efforts were of no avail, and shortly afterward the boy apparently died. Preparations were made for the funeral, and the father went to the Register office to obtain a certificate for the burial, but this the Registrar refused to give, as no medical gentleman had seen the lad while he was ill, and there was nothing to show what had been the cause of his death. The father was recommended to go to the Coroner and see if an inquest should be held; and thither he proceeded.

Hoyle, after hearing the particulars of the death, ordered a post mortem examination to be made, and W. S. Rayne, surgeon, was sent for. Rayne, was, however, out of town; and as the case was represented to be urgent—"the body would not keep this hot weather"—Bush (Rayne's assistant) got Dr. Carr to undertake the duty of ascertaining the cause of death. Dr. Carr and Bush, with their implements of dissection, and accompanied by the father of the "deceased," proceeded—two days after the lad had "died"—to the house of mourning, where had been left the body of the departed lad, with all the symbols of grief around it. But conceive the astonishment of the father when he beheld his son, who had been dead, as he thought, two days, standing in the doorway as if nothing had happened.

There was nothing ghostly about him. He did not appear like one, who had visited the other world, nor like one risen from the dead; but he stood with the [illegible] unconcern, and with every sign of youth and life about him. The astonished parent could scarcely believe his eyes, and the doctors almost began to think that they were hoaxed. The lad, however, told his own tale. He knew nothing about his narrow escape from being buried alive. All he knew was that he had been asleep, and on awakening, as he found no one in the house, his father was looking for the doctors, and his mother was out, probably making the arrangements for the funeral—he got up and feeling very hungry, looked about for something to eat. Finding some eggs, he cooked them, after which he went out, in happy ignorance of his narrow escape from the grave and the surgeon's knife. Bush told the lad it was a good thing that he had "come to life" when he did; if he had been but half an hour later he would probably have been killed in the attempt to ascertain why he had ceased to exist.

THE TRUE PEACE.—The Herald has a Washington telegram which says:

"Another illustration of the change going on in the minds of Southern men concerning negro labor and the best methods of adapting themselves to the conditions by which they are surrounded, was revealed in conversation this morning with a gentleman of considerable wealth before the war commenced, and the present owner of two large plantations in Georgia. He intends returning home immediately, subdividing his plantations into small lots, containing from ten to fifty acres each, and leasing them out for a number of years to the most trustworthy and industrious of his former negro servants, at such rates as they will agree to give and can well afford to pay. In some instances he will give the right to purchase at the expiration of the lease. When the negroes are settled, he will erect a cotton gin and open a country dry-goods and grocery store for supplying them with necessaries, and he believes that in ten years his income will quadruple what it was before the war. He is too sensible to be long without followers. The true interest of Southern landholders lies in this direction."

Certainly it does; and the arts of knavish politicians cannot long blind the planters to this truth. With all their faults, the planters will never find another rural peasantry that will suit them so well as their late slaves, while one million new competitors for the purchase of lands will soon make themselves felt in the price of that commodity. The land owners and the freedmen of the South have every reason for cultivating and cherishing mutual respect and good will; if they remain jealous and hostile, they will do each other great harm and no one any real good. Let the freedmen be encouraged to take land on shares, with the privilege of buying at a fixed price and they will soon be independent, though poor, while the present land owners will be richer than ever. And then you will have the land owners not merely consenting to but insisting on impartial suffrage.—N. Y. Tribune, Sept. 14.

A lady of Jacksonburg, Ohio, who lost her speech twenty five years ago while apparently in a trance, has lately recovered it, in as strange a manner, by taking an excessive quantity of spirits, as she was advised to do by a soldier who had cured himself of a less protracted dumbness in the same way.

HOUSEWIFERY.—The earlier the breakfast the more work will be got through with during the day, and the better health will the whole household have, because food or warm drink in the stomach antagonizes the disease engendering damps, fogs and miasms which impregnate the air about sunrise in all countries, especially in warm weather.

Quinces baked in sugar and water or syrup or simply baked and eaten with powdered sugar, make a good substitute for baked apples.

Potatoes may be kept a very long time from rotting in a cellar protected against frost, by dusting the floor with lime, then put in two or three layers of potatoes six inches thick, then dust with lime, another layer of potatoes, etc. One bushel of lime will do for forty bushels of potatoes; they sprout least in darkness.

Woolen flannel is the best protection against taking cold in all seasons; it is kept pliable by washing in strong hot soap suds, without rinsing, merely squeeze, then rinse in clear water and hang on a line to drip dry.

Silks are lost, next the skin, [illegible] some persons wash them by spreading on a board smoothly, rub on white soap, brush with a hard brush, then brush off with cold water applied to both sides. A little alum in the last water prevents color from running.

Grease stains are removed from silk by using equal parts of alcohol and camphene, never wring silk after washing, because the creases thus made will always remain. While burning fluid, which is a mixture of alcohol and turpentine, removes grease and oil or stains from light colored silks and gloves. Sour milk is good for bleaching linen, but grease is best removed from carpets with strong cold soap suds, thus avoiding the danger of camphene. Life has been lost by keeping oxalic acid in the house to remove ink and iron stains, but as it is only suitable for white fabrics, it should be plainly labeled and marked "Poison" in large letters if kept about the house; it is better to use the juice of lemons or sorrel leaves especially as the oxalic acid eats the fabrics, unless immediately and thoroughly washed off.

Persons have been suffocated by inhaling the fumes of burning sulphur, when used to bleach out colors and stains of fruits and vegetables particularly, hence the fumes should be conveyed to the stained spot by means of a funnel shaped paper roll; but it is safer to dip stained fabrics in sour milk, then dry in the sun, repeating the operation until the bleaching is perfected.

Flannel shirts or other woolens, should have grease spots removed without fulling them up, thus: Put one ox gall in three gallons of cold water in which immerse the garment, and squeeze or pound (not wring) it, until the spots are removed; then thoroughly wash in cold water else the odor of the gall becomes very disagreeable.

If burning fluid or benzole are used to remove grease or other stains, let it be at least two yards from any blaze of candles, gas lamp or fire. Valuable lives are lost every year, by neglecting this precaution.

Clinkers are removed from stove grates and range back thus: When the coal is all aglow throw in half a dozen broken oyster shells, cover these over with fresh coal, and when all are red hot the clinkers are doughy and are easily removed.

Milk is kept good longer, if it is boiled, evaporated, condensed or kept still at a temperature of about forty degrees. If heated three days in succession in summer and two in winter, [illegible] experimenting to the boiling point, it will keep two months without souring.

The best way of keeping milk in summer, is to have a spring house well shaded and on the north side of a hill, the pans sitting in a stream of running water protected against currents of air. The country people deliver milk at the railroads for two cents a quart, one cent freight to the city where it is delivered at sunrise to our citizens for seven cents a quart.

Peaches are peeled without waste when fully ripe, by pouring boiling water on them and let them remain a minute; the [illegible] is only skin deep, as in tomatoes.

Eggs are good which are diaphanous or show a faint reddish color, when held in a dark place, toward a candle or other light, when held in the circle made by the thumb and forefinger; they are bad in proportion as they seem black. This is an infallible test.

Carpet Sweeping.—Draw the broom to you with short quick strokes, taking up the dirt every half yard in a dust pan, or at each stair, and thus avoid working the dirt into the cleaner parts. Never use tea leaves, paper or damp grass to hold in the dust, let the dust pan do that.

Weather wise.—Allow the sugar to dissolve in your coffee or tea without stirring; if froth remains in the center, durable fine weather is indicated, but rainy if it settles around the sides, variable if it remains between the two, so says M. Savangeon.—Hall's Journal.

THE FASHIONS.—A late number of the London Review discourses thus on modern dress:

There are certain questions of social reform which are, from time to time, brought before the public, discussed with more or less ability, and having afforded ample scope for ingenious suggestions, are again allowed to drop into oblivion. It is the fate of our national costume—or rather let us say of European costume (for it contains but little element of nationality)—to be treated in this manner. Male attire in this country is not only unbecoming, but frequently inconvenient, and in some respects unhealthy to the wearer. But an Englishwoman's dress promises to add to these three unfortunate qualities a fourth which we will leave the ultra moralists to define. M. Dupin has just published a pamphlet "On the Unbridled Luxury of Women." If in a country where fashion holds her sternest sway, the extravagance of Parisian belles have attracted the attention of the State, let us hope that some protest will follow on this side of the channel, for whatever value we may set on the taste of a French milliner, there are higher considerations than the cut of dress or the shape of a bonnet, which we should be sorry to see our wives and daughters lose sight of. It is however, much more easy to censure the follies of modern dress than to propose a remedy for them, or even to assign a cause for their existence.

With regard to ladies' dress in England at the present time, a little alteration would make it in form at all events—a very pretty and picturesque costume. In the early part of this century "waists" were far too high. About fifteen years ago they were much too low. Now, they are just where they should be. Skirts are full and of ample length, bodices and sleeves are deftly shaped and decorated. The arrangement of the hair (always supposing it to be real) is, perhaps, on the whole, as good as it ever has been in this country. But two abuses remain to be rectified—namely, the elaborate bonnet and the obtrusive crinoline. No doubt in course of time they will be rectified. Meanwhile we are content to wait. The ways of the world are continually changing. There is a fashion in music, in poetry, in painting, in medicine, in politics, in religion. We need not therefore be surprised to find one in dress.

BURIAL OF THE ANDERSONVILLE PRISONERS.—Mr. Atwater, in company with Miss Clara Barton, passed through the city on their return from Andersonville, where they had been participating in the burial of our starved prisoners. Mr. Atwater had been a prisoner there and being a clerk whose duty it was to keep a record of mortality, he retained a copy for his own use and was thus enabled to give the names of nearly all of the 12,920 who were starved and buried there, together with the place where they lie. They were buried in trenches which were dug by the well prisoners wide enough to admit a body, say six feet, and the dead, sometimes thirty at a time, were thus placed side by side with the number and name of each recorded. The graves were all filled up with care and the cemetery of the martyred soldiers, embracing fifty one acres, was neatly inclosed with a painted picket fence.—Cincinnati Gazette.

THE CAUSE AND TREATMENT OF CHOLERA.—In summarizing a communication to the Medical Times and Gazette on this important subject, Dr. Chapman, among other conclusions, holds that the "primary cause of cholera is, as a general rule, the excessive heat of hot climates and of temperate climates in summer when cholera prevails; that "the proximate cause of cholera is of precisely the same nature as that of summer or choleraic diarrhœa, but that it is far more [illegible] and consequently that its action is proportionately more powerful and intense; that cholera is neither contagious nor infectious in any sense whatever, except through the depressing influence of fear [illegible]; that cholera may be completely averted, and when developed, cured by the persistent application of ice along the whole spine so long as any symptoms of the disease continue."

Undoubtedly one great reason, if not the greatest reason why a good many persons in Kentucky voted against the Constitutional Amendment was that the administration favored its adoption. If the administration had been in favor of its defeat, most of them would have gone for it. Let the administration do or ask what they may, they are determined to make war upon it, in the hope no doubt of keeping up fractious agitation and strife. Our State will understand them by and by, and then she will shake them from her shoulders as a man would cast off a pack infected with the yellow plague. Certainly Kentucky has as little to gain as the Administration from the prosecution of mutual hostilities.—Louisville Journal.

The income of the Girard estate in Philadelphia is now about two hundred thousand dollars a year, and still increasing.

GENERAL MEIGS AFTER MONTGOMERY BLAIR.—Washington, Sept. [illegible]. Quartermaster General Meigs will publish to-morrow a twelve hundred letter in reply to charges made in Montgomery Blair's late speech in [illegible] Capt. Fox's report in relation to the expedition to relieve Fort Sumter in 1861. General Meigs shows that Secretary Seward had nothing to do with the destination of the Powhatan, changed from the Sumter expedition to Fort Pickens, as charged by Capt. Fox, for she was ordered to the latter place before the Sumter expedition was determined on. Hence Secretary Seward could not have made the great mistake of supposing that she was going with the fleet to relieve Sumter. General Meigs, therefore, denies emphatically that Secretary Seward did anything to prevent the proposed relief reinforcement of Sumter.

A German citizen of New York who went to Bremen with an American delegation this [illegible] has been arrested during a visit to his old home on a charge of delinquency in military duty. The United States Consul has the matter in hand.

Gold mining is now being revived in Fluvanna and Buckingham counties in Virginia on a large scale. Mr. Grant is working twenty five hands in Fluvanna county, using five rockers and obtaining an average of from fifty to sixty pennyweights of fine gold a day.

Farm for Sale.

IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY, FOURTEEN MILES from Oregon City and 25 miles from Portland, containing 640 acres, 100 of which are fenced and in a good state of cultivation and a good orchard of twenty acres of the best fruit in the country. The land is half prairie and half timber. There is on it a good dwelling house, a barn and a distillery for making apple brandy nearly ready to run.
For convenience this place cannot be excelled in Oregon, being well situated, handy to mills and schools and in a good neighborhood.
It will be sold at a price very much below its actual value. For particulars apply to F. HELMS

ALLEN'S
LUNG BALSAM!
The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

FRENCH MEDICAL OFFICE,
FOR THE
CURE OF SPECIAL DISEASES,
ARMORY HALL BUILDING,
Northeast Corner Montgomery
and Sacramento streets,
ENTRANCE ON EITHER MONTGOMERY OR SACRAMENTO STREET.

DR. PERRAULT CONTINUES TO TREAT PRIVATE AND CHRONIC COMPLAINTS, SCROFULA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, SPERMATORRHEA, IMPOTENCE, STERILITY.
DR. PERRAULT is a Graduate of the University of Queens College, and is the ONLY REGULAR GRADUATE who practices as a SPECIALIST in San Francisco.
DR. PERRAULT will cure all who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory and Vigor, etc., resulting from injurious habits contracted in youth, or excesses in maturity, which produce constitutional debility and premature decline.
It is a melancholy fact that thousands fall victims to disease owing to unskillful treatment and improper use of Mercury.
All cases of Gonorrhea, Gleet, Strictures, Diseases of the Bladder, Gravel, Spermatorrhea and Impotence will be cured in a few days, without prevention from business.

To the Ladies.

Ladies suffering from Whites, Falling of the Womb, Suppression of the Menses or Profuse Flowing, Costiveness, Piles, Weakness of the Back, Pain in the side, Headache, Palpitation and all other diseases to which the female system is subjected, will find prompt relief by addressing themselves to DR. PERRAULT, corner Sacramento and Montgomery streets. Private entrance on Sacramento street.
To those seeking medical advice, a plain statement of their case will be given whether curable or not. All cases taken under treatment warranted. No charges for advice. No poisonous mineral medicines to injure the constitution, [illegible] honest in our dealings; frank in our opinions, moderate in our charges. We [illegible] not claim to know everything, but do claim to reason and common sense, and to cure eight out of ten pronounced incurable.
We particularly request those who have tried this Doctor and that scientific Physician, boasted and advertised, till worn out and discouraged to call upon us. It will cost nothing, as consultations are free.
N. B.—Persons at a distance can be cured at home by addressing a letter to DR. PERRAULT stating their case as minutely as possible, general habits of living, occupation, etc. Letters to be addressed, J. PERRAULT, M. D., corner Sacramento and Montgomery streets. Rooms 5 and 11, or Box 971 Post Office, San Francisco.
DR. PERRAULT still retains the agency of DR. BIOT'S FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS. Their immense sale has established their reputation as the only safe and effectual remedy for all irregularities and obstructions in females, no matter from what cause. On receipt of five dollars, the pills will be sent by Mail or Express to any part of the world, secure from curiosity or damage. [illegible]

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"
THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE BLADDER, KIDNEYS,
Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,
GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATTENDED this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—
DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS.
And in every disease in any way connected with the disorder or decay of the REPRODUCTIVE FUNCTIONS. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the
CONSTITUTION WATER,
Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once restored, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the
MEDICAL WONDER.
The [illegible] trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active, and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.
